

Colony Trust Company Announces Sponsorship of 2019 AI Todd Workshop

Charlotte, North Carolina – July 12, 2019 – Colony Trust Company is pleased to announce that it will be a sponsor of the South Carolina Bar’s 2019 AI Todd Estate Planning Workshop (www.sctbar.org). The conference will be held July 12-13, 2019 at Kiawah Island, SC.

Colony Trust Company was initially formed to provide a solution to the specific fiduciary needs of its existing client families and soon realized that there was a demand for customized fiduciary services. Given its deep experience working with the complexities of family structures and dynamics, Colony believes that families and their trusted advisors prefer a flexible and nimble corporate trustee rather than traditional bank and brokerage company trust organizations.

“In our first year of operations, we experienced considerable growth which continues to fuel our optimism for the future” Eric D. Ridenour, Managing Partner at Colony Trust Company said. “Our clients appreciate the time we take to build genuine connections with each member of their family and to develop a deep understanding of their unique family circumstances and vision for their wealth.”

The South Carolina Bar presents this advanced level CLE program biennially to experienced estate planners and tax attorneys across the state. It is named in honor of workshop founder AI Todd. The program covers significant estate planning, estate administration and tax issues.

About Colony Trust Company

Colony Trust Company is an independent, North Carolina public trust company regulated by the North Carolina Banking Commission. We provide comprehensive trust and estate administration services to individuals and families of significant wealth across the U.S. We are privileged to serve five client families with over $1 billion in assets under administration. CTC-19-05